

Dear Parents,

I hope that this fifth week of remote learning has become old hat for you. I know that Seesaw did have some technical issues, but we seem to have been able to work through them as they arose. As always, reach out to me if you are having any type of issues. I am happy to help you work through them or ask Ms. Seifers for help. (She is the BEST!)

I just wanted to give some reminder. If there is a link for a video with no other directions other than to watch the video provided that is all your student is expected to do. At our parent meeting last week some parents had asked if we could add some "specials" type activities in our lessons so they could get those requirements marked off their todo list each day. I am trying to add in short, cute, and fun videos that I would normally share with the kids if we had been in the classroom. I always like to start lessons with either a short video or a book, videos seem to be easier at this point. Please do NOT feel obligated to send me a note to state that your child watched the video if nothing else was asked to be done. I of course love any notes or pictures I receive from the kids, but it is not required. :)

Below you will find the links for how to log onto Seesaw, Mobymax, and the Zoom Meetings for the week. If you are having trouble accessing any of these please let me know and I will see what I can do to help.

Mobymax: Please remember that even though I am not "assigning" Mobymax lessons it is still important and a good tool for you to use with your student.

Thanks for all you are doing to help this time pass for your students! I hope and pray everyone is healthy and able to enjoy some of the nice weather outside.
